 A description of the Ægean Sea, in sonnets, with the woodcut maps usually facing the text. It is one of the rarest volumes of early Italian poetry. The maps are simple outlines, but in this very fine copy the coast lines have been delicately tinted and many place-names filled in with the hand. The date, according to Sir A. Panizzi's "interpretation of the three first lines at the commencement, proves that this work was dedicated to Giovanni Mocenigo, who was Doge of Venice from 1478 to 1485". Dibdin gives the date "about 1477," Quadrio makes it 1500. It was probably printed about 1485.

—— [The Works of the Comte Auguste de Bastard; being a collection of facsimiles of illuminated manuscripts.]
Paris, 1832-81.

Fol. 28 in. 10 vols.

 This collection of facsimiles of illuminated manuscripts was produced under the auspices of the French Government who subscribed for 60 copies. These were almost all placed in the Public Libraries of Paris and the Departments. The original intention was that the work should consist of three series of plates, the first, a set of 120 illustrating the peculiarities of the early styles of writing,—the palaeography. This number was cut down to 75 by the author. The second series was to include facsimiles of illuminated manuscripts of French origin. The third series was devoted to manuscripts of other countries. Two distinct issues or editions were made, the one being for that subscribed for by the French Government, the other for foreign governments. Nominally 20 livraisons of 8 plates were made for the French Government, or 160 plates, but only 16 parts or 128 plates were sent to the foreign governments. The greater part of the French edition, however, consisted only of 104 plates while a few possess 112. The foreign edition was limited to plates relating to the Carlovingian epoch, and contains many examples which are not to be found in the home edition and vice versa. I have endeavoured to make this magnificent work as complete as possible by combining the two editions, each supplementing the other. In 1848 the support of the French Ministry was withdrawn from the Comte de Bastard and the publication came to an end; there was, however, a vast amount of material partly finished in his hands, which was never issued, and the noble author prepared for his son the General Comte Octave de Bastard d'Estang, a set bound in 11 folio volumes, comprising everything which had been done. The author died in 1883, and his son in May, 1884. His widow thinking how best to preserve the glory of the name, presented these 11 volumes to the Bibliothèque Nationale in Paris. Through the kindness of Mons. Léopold Delisle I was placed in communication with the Comtesse de Bastard and was thus enabled to supplement my collection of the plates until it has become second only to that of the Bibliothèque Nationale.
I have considered each plate as a rare engraving and have endeavoured to show the different stages through which it passed from the bare outline to the finished illuminated facsimile. The collection now consists of 362 plates of subjects, or counting the various "states" of the plates, the number is raised to 546; of these fully one half were never published.
The full description of these plates would take some 20 columns of my catalogue, I therefore refer the reader to the monograph on the work printed in my "Collations and Notes".

 Benjamin of Tudela was a traveller of the 12th century. This is the second printed edition of his work, and is extremely rare, only two other copies being known, one in the Bodleian and one in the British Museum. On the title-page is written in Italian cursive Hebrew: Bought by Raphael b. Benjamin, physician, of Modiliano.

 There are two varieties of this work: the one has only the title printed in capitals in black on the verso of leaf 1, the recto of which is left blank; the last leaf of the volume is blank on both sides, so that there is neither place nor printer given. The other variety, of which the copy described above is a perfect example, is merely a "remainder" with an additional title in Gothic letter in red printed on the recto of leaf 1, and the register and colophon printed on the recto of the last leaf. Brunet is wrong in saying that this leaf was substituted for the blank, as in a copy formerly in this library it is the counterpart of sig. f1. These additions to the "remainder" were probably made about 1520-25. There are errors and omissions in the signatures e. g. a: 1 in place of aa.i.; aa.iii, iiii, for aaiiii, v; ai, ii, and fi. not signed; fii, iii, iiii, for fiii, iiii, v.

HEBREW.

[Lithographic facsimile of the second part of the Law of Moses (commonly called "Exodus") made by Mr. Kraus, at Jerusalem in 1864, from a most ancient Samaritan MS. of the Law, called "The Fire-tried Book," and traditionally supposed to have been subjected to the trial of fire, in the presence of Cyrus, King of Persia.] Jerusalem, 1864.

4°. 9 in. Hebrew. (50) leaves.

 The Colophon (of the MS.) states that it was bought by Mith-paẓiyah ben Mithûḥiyah from his brother for 25 shekels, in the year 5752 (sic) from the Exodus, which is 544 A.H. (=1160 A.D.). In a later hand, at the side:—This is the Holy Law which was rescued from the fire by the power of the Lord and his mercy: written (i.e. this note was written?) by Abraham ben Joseph, the priest. This note probably caused the MS. to be connected with the early legend, but it no doubt refers to some more modern and common-place incident. The loose leaf enclosed contains a facsimile of Gen. x. headed לוח האמים (for העמים) from a Samaritan MS. It has a pencil note (by W. H. Black?) "14/4/68 from Mrs. Ducat of Jerlm then departing from Engld".

69. Adrien de Croy, Comte de Reux, great-grandson of 23, 24.
The engravings numbered from 61 to 69 were not entirely finished at the time of the death of Charles, duc de Croy, and his successors did not continue the work. They are, as the others, full length standing portraits, and represent the branches of Chimay, etc. The names and titles of the persons represented are not engraved on the plates, but by the arms the right names have been found.
[69 bis. Portrait of Philippe de Croy Chimay d'Arenberge, prince du St. Empire et du dt. Chimay. Bust, engraved about 1675. This does not belong to the work of De Bie and is only added as an extra illustration.]

Views of Castles. 7 plates (70-76).

70. Heverlé and château d'Heverlé.
71. Village et château de Montcornet. Le château et bascourt de Montcornet.
72. Village dependans de la baronnie de Bierbecke. La maison de Valbecke.
73. La ville de Reux. La ville de Chièvre.
74. View of a chatêau. Not named. La Maison d'Arschot.
75. Principauté de Porcéan. Château de Porcéan.
76. Seigneurie d'Araines. Duché de Croy.

With a manuscript genealogical tree, drawn up to illustrate the descents of the House of Croy, and by help of which the portraits have been arranged in their proper order. It is believed to be the most complete copy in existence.
 Executed by order of Charles, duc de Croy, but was unfinished when the Duke died on 13 January, 1612. The text which should accompany the plates has never been printed.

BLAND (Peter) An Answer to the late . . . pamphlet, entituled A Complaint to the House of Commons: and resolution taken up by the free Protestant subjects of . . . London and Westminster and the counties adjacent. Wherein 'tis proved that the Lord Major of London doth not usurp his office; but is a legall Major, and obedience ought to be given him. London, John Field, 1643.
4°. 7 in. 16 pp.

—— An Argument in justification of the five members formerly, and so virtually clearing the four men now accused by His Majesty; wherein is proved, that the raising of this present army by authority of Parliament is not treason; by which it likewise appeareth, that never any king of England received loss or damage by any Parliament, from the first that ever was called, to this present Parliament. . . . Somers (J.) Baron Somers, Collection of tracts, vol. 4, pp. 373-379. 1810, 4°.

—— Resolved upon the question, or a question resolved concerning the right which the king hath to Hull, or any other fort or place of strength for the defence of the kingdome; wherein is likewise proved that neither the setling of the militia as 'tis done by the Parliament, nor the keeping of Hull by Sir John Hotham nor any other act that the Parliament have yet done is illegall, but necessary, just, and according to the power which the law hath given them. . . .
[London], Matthew Walbancke, 1642.
4°. 8 in. 16 pp.

—— A Royall position whereby 'tis proved, that 'tis against the common laws of England to depose a King: or an addition to a book intituled Resolved upon the question or, a question resolved, concerning the right which the king hath to Hull, or any other fort or place of strength for the defence of the kingdom. . . . (An Answer to the London petition.) London, John Field, 1642.

 This edition has served as the groundwork for all later impressions to that of Manelli in 1761. A counterfeit or reprint of it was printed at Venice in 1729. The original edition is easily distinguished by the a which has a pointed head; and the leaves which should be numbered 42, 102, 108 are wrongly marked 24, 101, 168. In the reprint the a is round headed, and the errors in numbering are corrected.

 The errata leaves were three times printed; in this copy they are of the first issue. This was the first Greek grammar written in the Latin language, and even in 1499 had become so scarce that, in one of his letters, Erasmus deplores its great rarity. It is, however, not so rare as one would fancy from this.
